

L SLARF

LONDON
SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
RESEARCH FORUM

L-SLARF Colloquium 2022

Saturday 21 May 10:00-17:00 BST

Room B35, Birkbeck, University of London

FREE event

Live on

 YouTube

Andrea Révész, University College London

The neural correlates of mid- and end-clause silent pauses in L2 speech

Ana Pellicer Sanchez, University College London

Revisiting the role of lexical coverage in reading

Kazuya Saito, University College London

Introducing offline auditory processing test as L2 research and teaching tool

Parvaneh Tavakoli, University of Reading

What constitutes task complexity? A pre-service teacher perspective

Eloi Puig-Mayenco, King's College London

Assessing the reliability of Lextale, as a measure of proficiency

Jean-Marc Dewaele, Birkbeck, University of London

Is flow possible in the Emergency Remote Teaching foreign language classroom?

Viktoria Magne, University of West London

What phonetic features predict attitudes to L2 speech?

Pauline Foster, University College London

L1 literacy and L2 oracy: A partial replication of Foster & Skehan (1996)

